Nate Silver's Project FiveThirtyEight predicts that Kara Eastman will win Nebraska's Second Congressional District.

Omaha, Neb. -- Project FiveThirtyEight predicts Kara Eastman has a 58.2% chance of winning against Congressman Don Bacon in the general election. The Second District has been classified as a "toss-up" going into the 2018 midterm election.

"This comes as no surprise to our campaign," said Kara Eastman. "We are spending each day out in the community, talking to voters, and you can feel the excitement. Nebraskans are energized, mobilized, and ready to vote in November."

Kara continued, "Don Bacon has forgotten his commitment to the families in this district. We deserve representatives who will put middle-class families first, who will represent people and not corporations, and who will fight for solutions to the issues we care about.”

Kara is the former President and CEO of Omaha Healthy Kids Alliance and the Vice-Chair of the Board of Governors of Metropolitan Community College. She is the Democratic nominee running for Congress in Nebraska’s Second District.
